STUDENT GROUPS

Suffolk Law hosts more than 50 student organizations, including the Student Bar Association (SBA), honor boards, and more than a dozen affinity groups. Here's what some of our students have to say about their involvement in student groups:

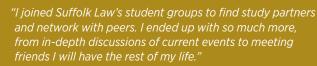

"My favorite part of being involved in the many affinity groups here was having the opportunity to learn about different cultures and perspectives. It is important to me to be able to empathize with others and meet new people. Furthermore, as the president of LALSA, I hoped to mentor new students to encourage them and ensure they are the best law students they can be with their abilities, so they do not get lost in the crowd."

—Gary Prado, JD'16
President, Latin American Law Students Association
Member, Black Law Students Association

"I joined SBA because I wanted to be the voice of our affinity groups on campus. I wanted to have the opportunity to not only be a liaison, but to but bring everyone together by bridging the gap within our campus community. Coming from an HBCU (Historically Black Colleges and Universities), I wanted to join an organization that promoted and supported the needs of the Black legal community, and BLSA did just that. I felt right at home!"

Shirbrea Ponder, JD'18
 Executive Board, Black Law Students Association
 Director of Diversity & Inclusion,
 Student Bar Association

—Cherie M. Ching, JD'16President, Asian Pacific American Law Students Association

FIRST-YEAR REQUIRED COURSES

The first-year curriculum introduces students to legal reasoning and case analysis, and emphasizes close analysis of judicial decisions. Day students take five required courses in each of the two semesters of their first year. Evening students take four courses each semester, typically completing the required courses within the first four semesters.

CIVIL PROCEDURE

This course studies the process of civil litigation from the commencement of a lawsuit through final judgment, with an emphasis on the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW

A survey of topics in US constitutional law, this course establishes a foundation for understanding the allocation of powers between the federal government and the states, separation of powers, and the role of equal protection and due process doctrines in protecting individual rights.

CONTRACTS

This two-semester course analyzes how a contract is formed and the legal theories of consideration, promissory estoppel, and promissory restitution that have evolved over centuries to make promises legally enforceable. The course then progresses to breach, damages for non-performance, and excuses for non-performance.

CRIMINAL LAW

This survey of substantive criminal law focuses predominantly on how criminal statutes are organized around objective offense elements (conduct, causation, and attendant circumstances) and mental states, and to a lesser degree on inchoate crimes, complicity, justification, and excuse. Additionally, the course studies one or more specific crimes in depth, including homicide, and repeatedly raises the question: How well does American criminal law fulfill its goals?

LEGAL PRACTICE SKILLS

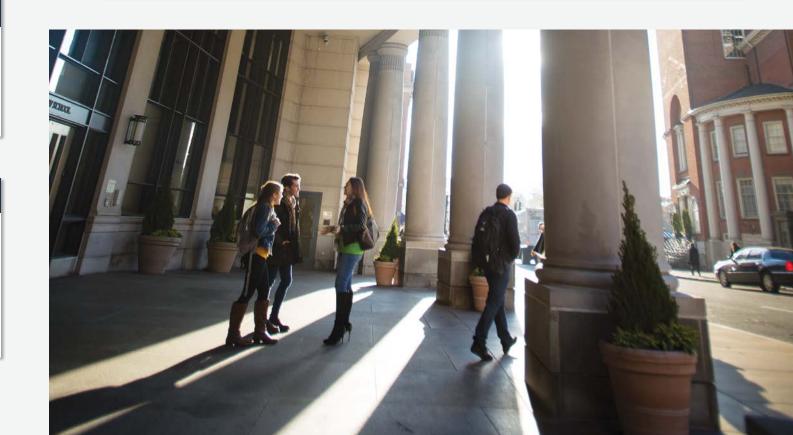

The Legal Practice Skills Program is a two-semester, five-credit program for first-year students. It includes practice in issue analysis and the writing of legal memoranda, preparation of legal briefs and oral arguments, and an introduction to computerized legal research systems. The program is designed to prepare students for the writing and research work expected of the modern practitioner.

PROPERTY

This course is a study of the acquisition, ownership, and transfer of property—both personal and real—and includes an analysis of ownership concepts, rights of possession, donative transactions, future interests, concurrent interests, landlord and tenant issues, land transactions, and governmental regulations.

TORTS

This course considers when actors who cause injury or damage to others must compensate the injured party. Tort liability may be based on intentional invasions of the rights of others, such as assault, battery, false imprisonment, or defamation. Other torts arise from negligent conduct, such as auto accidents and medical malpractice. And some tort claims are based on strict liability, that is, liability for causing injury from an activity even though it is conducted with due care.

IMPORTANT NOTES

OFFICIAL TRANSCRIPT REQUIREMENT

We need a copy of your college transcript, noting the degree received and the date it was awarded. This is a requirement set by the American Bar Association (ABA) before you may begin law school classes. Final transcripts must be sent to the Law School Admission Council (LSAC).

ORIENTATION

Orientation is when you'll finally meet your classmates, learn the secrets of Campus Cruiser, and have all your IL questions answered. Orientation is mandatory and will be held prior to the start of classes. Details will be sent to you in early summer.

NOTICE REGARDING CHARACTER & FITNESS

Each state bar association has a character or ethics section as part of its certification. Your criminal record could prevent you from sitting for the bar examination even if you have received a JD degree from an ABA-accredited law school. Only the bar association in a given state can advise whether a conviction will prevent you from sitting for the bar exam in that state. We advise you to contact the relevant state bar association directly before you begin law school rather than waiting until graduation. It is important that you notify the Law School immediately if you receive a new criminal charge, conviction, or LSAC misconduct notification after submitting your application.

PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION

Suffolk Law School is located at the heart of Boston's extensive public transportation system, the MBTA. We encourage students to use public transit as much as possible and offer discounted semester passes. The deadline to sign up for fall passes is in July. Suffolk Law School does not provide parking for students. Details will be sent to you in early summer.

HOUSING

Suffolk University's Off-Campus Housing Office helps all Suffolk students find accommodations. Suffolk Law School does not provide on-campus housing. Law students should visit suffolk.edu/ocho to search for rental listings, find roommates, and research neighborhoods.

MILITARY VETERANS

Suffolk University is a proud participant in the Post-9/11 GI Bill Yellow Ribbon Program and offers qualified veterans tuition assistance through the Yellow Ribbon GI Education Enhancement Program. Suffolk's financial commitment—combined with government allowances—enables eligible veterans to cover the cost of tuition, fees, and books. Visit suffolk.edu/veterans.

HEALTH INSURANCE

State law requires all students without a qualifying health insurance plan for the academic year to participate in the Suffolk University Student Health Insurance Plan. If you have alternate health insurance, you must complete an online waiver. All eligible students who do not complete the waiver will be automatically enrolled in the Suffolk health insurance plan and charged the policy premium. For more information, visit suffolk.edu/healthrequirements.

TUITION

Tuition for the first half of the year will be due in July. Suffolk University does not generate paper invoices. A notice will be sent to your Suffolk email when your e-bill account is created. You must pay all charges less any financial aid award(s) or you will not be able to begin classes. For information about payment plans, employer reimbursement, and how to pay, visit suffolk.edu/bursar.
